

President Joseph R. Biden
The White House
1600 Pennsylvania Ave NW
Washington, DC 20500

March 17, 2021

Dear President Biden,

We, the undersigned, are multi-generational Korean American leaders united in our common desire to see a peaceful resolution to the 70-year Korean War. We represent diverse fields including academia, business, politics and culture. We are Democrats and Republicans. Some of us are former U.S. government officials, nuclear policy experts, in the arts, nonprofit leaders, and humanitarian aid workers with experience engaging directly with North Koreans. As Americans of Korean descent, we share a personal interest in a stable Korean Peninsula.

President Biden, we urge you to declare the official end of the Korean War. An end of Korean War declaration would have significant and concrete implications for advancing the broader peace process. The COVID-19 pandemic has shown that countries, including the United States and North Korea, cannot afford to divert critically needed resources toward perpetuating this endless war. The Korean War cost nearly \$400 billion (in 2019 dollars) to fight, and continues to be a source of justification for military-centered policies by the United States, South Korea, Japan, and others in the region.

Survey data suggest that many Americans support negotiating a peace agreement with North Korea. In 2019, a poll conducted by Data for Progress and YouGov found that 67% of Americans support a peace agreement with North Korea, including 76% of respondents who identify as Republican and 63% of respondents who identify as Democrat. Support exists in Congress as well, where 52 members of both parties co-sponsored H.Res.152 in the 116th Congress calling for a formal end to the Korean War.

There are human costs to inaction. Tens of thousands of Korean families — including many Korean Americans — remain separated as a result of this seven decades-long war. Days before the election, you wrote that as you peered across the DMZ, you “felt the pain of division on the Korean Peninsula and the separation of families since the Korean War.” Imagine the heartbreak for so many elderly Koreans waiting to see their loved ones. For too many, time is running out.

As outgoing Deputy Secretary of State Stephen Biegun declared in December, “The war is over, the time for conflict has ended and the time for peace has arrived. If we are to succeed, we must work together — the United States, the Republic of Korea, and the DPRK. And when we do, we will at long last be able to bring to this peninsula the lasting peace and prosperity that all the Korean people so richly deserve.”

A lasting resolution to the United States’ oldest overseas conflict is long overdue. We appeal to you to accomplish what no US president has done before: End the Korean War and build a strong foundation for permanent peace on the Korean Peninsula.

Respectfully,
